The course is a comprehensive, practice-oriented professional training program designed for individuals interested in arbitration, particularly those starting or developing their careers as counsel in preventing and resolving commercial and investment disputes in international business.

The intensive course is conducted over one semester through four two-day meetings held on Saturdays and Sundays at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the Jagiellonian University in Krakow, totaling 54 contact hours. It covers key issues regarding the organization, functioning, and role of the ICC International Court of Arbitration—a leading global arbitration institution—as well as individual stages of arbitration proceedings. Topics include the preparation and negotiation of arbitration agreements (clauses), dispute management strategies and tactics, and the arbitration procedure itself based on the ICC Arbitration Rules of 2021. This includes preparing summons to arbitration, responses to arbitration, other procedural documents, provisional protection measures (including proceedings before an emergency arbitrator), selection and appointment of arbitrators and their exclusion, activities within the organizational meeting, participation in the preparation of the mission act, activities in evidentiary proceedings and adjudication (including decisions on the costs of the proceedings), and post-arbitration proceedings.

These topics are presented primarily from the perspective of the counsel and in-house lawyer representing entities involved in business-related disputes. The course emphasizes practical classes, including workshops based on document preparation, simulations of procedural activities, group work, and analysis and resolution of practical procedural problems, conducted in the form of a mock arbitration case.

The course methodology and materials (including working documentation and assignments) are developed and regularly updated by experts from the ICC Institute of World Business Law. This ensures the highest standard of knowledge and skills, aligned with best practices in the field, and adaptation to changing trends, conditions, new phenomena (e.g., third-party funding for disputes, the impact of international conflicts and sanctions on arbitration proceedings), and the resulting market challenges and needs.
